

By working collaboratively I think EONS and ISNCC can make a synergetic effect around the globe by ensuring that cancer nursing hits the agenda and trough that helps cancer patients and their families. I really wish that together we could be a strong voice in helping nurses to speak up for themselves, in political matters, at conferences, in media both national and international, and always with the aim of making the best care for cancer patients and their relatives. I know it sounds very idealistic, but I still thinks that it is so very important, and that nurse around the world sometimes tend to “hide” in the “cancerdebate”, also when it actually affect them and their work! Nurses should be so proud of their job, it’s the best job in the world, to make a difference for others in their most needs.
