

Helen Langton

RGN, RSCN, RCNT, RNT, BA(Hons), MSc

Helen Langton is Pro-Vice Chancellor and Executive Dean at the University of the West of England, and a professor in Children's Cancer Nursing Education. Helen has held a number of senior posts in Universities in the United Kingdom and has a range of experience across health and social care, the range of science and social science and education. Helens research and teaching expertise relates to Children and Young People with Cancer, Inter professional Education, Technology Enhanced Learning and Innovation and Improvement methodologies. Helen was instrumental in working with the Teenage Cancer Trust in the U.K. to develop the bespoke interactive online Post Graduate Certificate in Cancer Care for Teenagers and Young Adults.

Helen has been a member of a number of national boards and bodies including with the Nursing and Midwifery Council and currently Co-Chairs the Professional Advisory Board for Nursing and Midwifery at the Department of Health. Internationally Helen is a board member for the Academy of Health Care Improvement, and a board member for the De Souza Nursing Institute in Toronto Canada and Associate Editor of the International Journal of Child Health Care.