

Wendy Wood

RN, BN, MHA, DBA(c), MRCNA, AFACHSM

Wendy began her nursing career in Australia prior to traveling to the UK where she commenced a peri-operative career spanning 16 years.

Wendy's current responsibilities at Peter Mac in Victoria, Australia include organisational performance management at the Executive level, leadership and management of Allied Health and 24/7 inpatient services, non-clinical support services, hospital operations and infrastructure, Human Resources and the professional leadership of all nurses. She is also heavily involved in the planning of the new home of Peter Mac as a component of the Victorian Comprehensive Cancer Centre.

Throughout her career Wendy has consistently been involved in development of the nursing profession through committee membership, organizing conferences and speaking on such topics as Leading for Change, Cultural Change, Transformational Leadership and Strategic Planning. She is committed to improving health care systems to ensure continual improvement in the quality and safety of acute health care and is a volunteer surveyor with the Australian Council on Health Care Standards.

Wendy is currently undertaking a professional doctorate; her thesis is on the engagement of clinical professionals in strategy and innovation and the relationship of such engagement and organisational effectiveness.