

Biography:

When I was the second year of high school student, my mother at age of 44 years old was diagnosed with a rectum cancer. That was one of reasons I became a nurse. And fortunately, my mother was alive until age of 89 years old without the recurrence.

After graduating from nursing school, I have worked as a nurse at adult health nursing area such as surgical, internal medicine, orthopedic, and hospice wards. Then I began to teach nursing as a nursing faculty at age of nearly 40 years old, and have worked over 20 years for mainly adult nursing, cancer nursing and palliative care. While those days, nursing skill relating to advanced medical treatment has been changed remarkably to advanced nursing skill which is necessary for patients. What now I concern after 40 years' nursing experience is that the integrity or holistic care in human caring is very important for nursing practice. We can do such a nursing wherever you go in the world because it is universal. Therefore, I would like to focus the study of integrity medicine or nursing in the future which is a part of oncology nursing care.

Description of current and past work with ISNCC:

I have been working as a member of board directors of ISNCC and also member development and communications committee for nearly two years. And also I worked for the 16th ICCN in Atlanta USA in this March as a member of the scientific planning committee. I had a wonderful experience and learned many things through the activities of board directors and scientific planning committee. In the future, I would like to join educational and researchable activities at ISNCC. I would like to communicate with oncology nurses in the world and share the knowledge and skills.
